

As of 11/23/06, New York state allows a client to directly access the services of physical therapy for 10 visits or a periods of 30 days, whichever comes first. However, each individual health plan can require a referral before they cover physical therapy services. Please be advised that if you choose to pursue physical therapy services without a referral, your insurance may or may not cover these services. The patient is ultimately responsible for all services rendered.

I, _____, have read and understand the above notice regarding physical therapy services that will be provided to me beginning on _____. I understand that I may be responsible for full payment if my insurance does not cover services without a written referral.
